vaccination against tuberculosis will be developed and become a useful agent in combating the "white plague" is the belief of H. P. Sights, city health officer, attended the meetings of the national tuberculosis congress and witnessed the tests made of the inoculation of children in the city hospital at Washington. The question of whether or not tuberculosis can be contracted from the milk and in eating that comes from cattle infected with tuberculosis, caused the greatest concern at the congress and although there were prominent medical men who disagreed, it was the opinion of the majority of the members that it is contracted from the bovine contracted from the bovine development of a tubercular virus was almost assured.

Sights witnessed the inoculation of children, already believed to have tuberculosis, with bovine germs. Tests were carried far enough to show that there is a possibility of tuberculosis vaccination, resulting from the virus injected by Dr. Petrie, the doctor. The inoculation of the children in Washington became known that the tests were harmless and there was no subject contracting the disease.

Two principal demonstrations were made to determine whether a patient has tuberculosis; second kind of tuberculosis, and were located.

Tendance and interest manifested at the meeting of the congress the expectations of the prominent of the greatest of enthusiasm. Especially were the former interested and were absent from a single session.

Two foreign doctors said that New York was best organized to fight tuberculosis in any city in the world, and there are meetings in progress in its treatment than in the United States. Under orders of the board of health where tubercular patients are placed the same as other contagious diseases where patients are unable to receive treatment at home or in hospitals.

President Roosevelt May Agree to Take Stump and Deliver Speech at Madison Square Garden, N. Y.

Chairman Hitchcock Visits Executive at Washington Enroute to Chicago, Presumably to Put Request.

New York, Oct. 3.—Chairman Hitchcock started for Chicago and will visit President Roosevelt en route. It is believed he intends urging the president to take the stump. The Republicans have secured Madison Square Garden October 26 for a big rally. No speakers are assigned. It is believed Roosevelt will appear.

Secretary Root Reports.

New York, Oct. 3.—That President Roosevelt sent Secretary of State Root to this city to look into the management of the national Republican campaign and that Mr. Root reported that the chief difficulty lay in the collection of campaign funds by Treasurer George R. Sheldon was the statement published here today as coming from a "high authority."

It was also stated that the president and Mr. Taft had objected to the collection of campaign funds from the corporations with which Mr. Sheldon is intimately associated. From others it is said Mr. Sheldon expected difficulty in securing contributions.

Mr. Root was said also to have reported to the president that there was not enough money on hand to run the campaign and that speakers have been cut off the program for that reason.

Mr. Hitchcock said the financial outlook was encouraging and that subcommittees were now at work on the details of a plan which will be satisfactory, it being understood that the various states which hitherto had looked to the committee for assistance would now render assistance to the national committee.

Bryan's Plans.
Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 3.—W. J. Bryan has changed his plans, as announced, after his return from Chicago, where he and Taft will address the deep waterways congress. He will devote a couple of days to speech making in his former congressional district. After a short rest he will start on his eastern tour through Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey and New York. Bryan is greatly interested in the coming publication of campaign contributions. He believes the list, including many who formerly opposed him, will prove that Democracy is united.

Alleged Bootlegger.
Elwood Neel, deputy United States marshal, brought in Finley Johnson, a negro, this morning, charged with bootlegging. Johnson waived examination when arraigned before Commissioner Gardner and gave bond for his appearance at the November term of federal court.

Mr. Root was said also to have reported to the president that there was not enough money on hand to run Men Who Won and Men They Defeated Travel With the Candidate.

State Will Roll Up Unusual Majority This Time.

CAUGHT IN PRESS AT DENVER

Dodge City, Kas., Oct. 3.—It is acknowledged that Taft was in serious danger on account of the crowd at Dodge last night. The mob scattered his body guards and the candidate had to fight his way out. Only his huge size saved him.

Senator Long and Joseph Bristow, who defeated Long for renomination; Stubbs, the gubernatorial nominee, and Leland, who Mr. Stubbs defeated, and Governor Hoch are accompanying Taft, the latter acting as peacemaker in settling disputes. Taft spoke at half a dozen towns. He declared the issue is whether Roosevelt's policies shall be executed. It is expected that Kansas will roll up a bigger majority than usual.

Date Not Set.

TEN YEAR SENTENCES GIVEN SLAYERS OF VAUGHN BENNETT BY CLARKSVILLE, TENN., JURY

John Gardner and Walter Hunt Found Guilty of Murder in the Second Degree.

MEN WHO WAYLAID NIGHT RIDERS NOT JUSTIFIED BY MANNER IN WHICH DEED WAS COMMITTED

Charge of Judge Tyner and Story of Ambush in Which Masked Youth Was Slain in Road.

Clarksville, Oct. 3. (Special)—John Gardner and Walter Hunt were found guilty of murder in the second degree for slaying Vaughn Bennett. They were sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

In his charge Judge Tyner said the proof shows that Vaughn Bennett, the night he was killed, was riding on the highway in company with others, and several of his companions have testified in this case. He said, in part:

"Proof going to show the acts of this band of men and others associated with them had also been permitted to go to a jury to show their character and the motives that impelled them to go in company upon the highway that night. The jury is entitled to know this. Indeed, they must know it, to have any intelligent idea of the case. Proof of a wider and more general conspiracy, extending beyond the borders of the state, was rejected."

EVIDENCE PREPARED.

"If these defendants went upon the spot where the homicide was committed, intending, if the band of night riders passed by, to fire upon them without notice and without provocation; if this was their purpose in going out to the spot and remaining on the spot, then they cannot plead self-defense now, though a conflict may have been provoked and they may have, in fact, been in serious danger at the time they fired. But if the defendants went upon the spot not for the sole purpose of taking life without provocation, but for the purpose of making an arrest, or for any other purpose not felonious, and were discovered and fired upon by the deceased, or those of his companions, and finding themselves in imminent danger, they returned the fire and killed Vaughn Bennett, then they would be entitled to acquittal on the grounds of self-defense."

HOMICIDE NOT DENIED.

"The fact of the homicide is not denied, nor is it denied that death resulted from the act of these defendants. The most important inquiry for you is, were they justified or excusable in taking human life as they did; were they acting in self-defense when they fired the shots that caused the death of Vaughn Bennett."

Story of the Crime.

Vaughn Bennett was found in the road in Montgomery county, dead, with a black mask on his face and a white scarf fastened to his shoulder. Two dead horses lay near him, and a broken hitch strap and a torn up condition of the turf about indicated that a large party had been ambushed and stampeded. Bennett's brother was found to be wounded by gunshot, but he remained silent.

Gardner and Hunt were arrested and it was generally understood that they had waylaid the band of night riders at the bend in the road and opened fire on them.

When the time for trial came they presented hundreds of affidavits from reputable citizens, saying that on account of the high feeling and excitement existing in the county a fair trial and unprejudiced jury was impossible. The judge said there was no excitement and compelled them to go to trial.

How far the judge believed his own statement that there was no excitement is manifested by the fact that no one could enter the court room without sending his card to the judge and securing permission, and submitting to being searched by two deputies for concealed weapons.

The Week In Society.

SURVIVAL OF THE UNITE.

Tis the cracked and noseless pitcher
That survives the hardest knocks;
Tis that gown that least becomes us
Which outwears our favorite frock
Tis the broken-ribbed umbrella
That confronts us, rainy days.

While our own pearl-handled treasure
In some other hall rack strays.

Tis the coarse and common fabric Goes unscratched through suds and dust.

While our best and finest linen
Gets the coffee-stain and rust.

Tis the weed that's most obnoxious

That is left to spread and grow.

While the "slip" most dearly cherished

Falls a victim to the hoe.

Tis the friend our heart has longed for

Who can "just a minute" stay,
While the family aversion

Volunteers to spend the day.

Thus numberless examples

Do not prove one little bit,

The correctness of the saying,

"The survival of the fit."

County Court Clerk.

The Sun is authorized to announce that Smedley a candidate for re-election to the office of Clerk of the McCracken County Court subject to the action of the Democratic party.

DAILY THOUGHT.

There is no faith without some feeling for our fellows.

Don't forget to register Tuesday.

At least some of our public men have not abandoned the art of letter writing for the easier post card habit.

Some critics may think Miss Barry more did not elevate society a great deal, but they must admit she jacked it up considerably in her interview.

Candidates are funny fellows. First they make their platforms; then they go around fixing up their fences, and they spend the last weeks of the campaign nailing lies.

Mr. Clark is a member of the police force, and the police and fire commissioners always suspend policemen during their political activity, as the position of patrolman is not properly a political office. Wade Brown happens to hold a political office, which he is filling most efficiently and conscientiously. That's the answer.

A PLEASANT VOICE.

Sounds good to again hear from our old friend former Mayor James Lang. The last statement from him was an explanation that the primary was on the square after the morning paper had rebuked the party for defeating two estimable gentlemen for renomination to the board of aldermen. Perhaps, the "Smith Democrats" have been duly chastened; for Mr. Lang is cheerful over the prospects for the local ticket. Mr. Lang managed Tom Harrison's campaign for the nomination last year and for election. He was a manager of the primary this year and is managing the campaign this fall. When we consider how fortunate Mr. Lang was with his primary last year and with his primary this year, and how unfortunate he was with his political forecast last fall, we must accord him 100 per cent on primary efficiency, but mark him deficient in political prescience.

THE BIG THIRD PARTY VOTE.
While statesmen, politicians and the press in the early days of the campaign were discussing problems of statecraft, economics and "issues", the people remained unresponsive. They were thinking of matters that laid deeper than trade relations; they were thinking about men.

A panic had just prostrated business. And the worst feature of it was that men were out of work. Men were hungry, that was it. The productive capacity of the country was just as great, the demand, if want is the measure of it, was just as pressing, and the supply was ample; but some were in need. Why was this?

It seemed a useless and senseless panic. Indeed, the chief productive element of the country was undisturbed, except favorably—the farming class. If governmental policy had had a hand in the cause of it, the government can be blamed only with enforcing the law in the way the people have been crying for; compelling transportation lines to cease granting rebates to favorite shippers and forcing illegal combinations in restraint of trade to disband.

Various reasons for the disorder have been assigned. Some have said that powerful influences injurious to the administration, which spoiled their designs, produced the panic to stop the reform. Others believe that overcapitalized railroads, instead of spending the surplus of large bond issues in double tracking their lines, and installing automatic signals so as to double their facilities for handling freight both ways, thus reducing the cost and increasing profits, and instead of abolishing grade crossings to save human lives, were spending these millions acquiring competing lines, and in purchasing coal mines and industries along their lines, which they favor in rates. When these were attacked Wall street shivered, and the chilled life blood of commerce retreated to its common center.

Not until Mr. Hearst got into the campaign did interest revive. Those were human documents he read in his prolonged correspondence between Mr. Archbold and some statesmen; and the people were very much alive to humanity. We human beings are destined for an average period of 35 years to linger on this planet. What is more important than making this sojourn as endurable and pleasant as possible and preparing ourselves for the next world? Prince and pauper, trust magnate, union laborer, "scab", harlot and professional man, we are all destined to the same earthly life. When you get down to that proposition you are arguing something more fundamental than political economy, are you not?

Now, does one ask why Socialism and Hearstism are promising to poll such huge votes this year? It is because they are appealing to men on the principle that the men themselves are more important than the adjustment of the tariff or the policies of state. We don't say that their remedies for evils, real and imaginary, are right, but we do say that they recognize the trend of popular thought and do offer a remedy.

THREE PLANS ARE OFFERED.

Thus we have three plans from which to choose this fall. The Republican party declares that in the evolution of business, the prevention of waste by co-operation and economy has become the modern principle. Socialism proclaims that this principle will evolve into the principle of socialistic government. Bryan declares that all forms of combinations—excepting those that vote—are wrong and we should return to the old-time cut-throat, wasteful, extravagant system. To secure this he recommends a reduction of the tariff and an arbitrary supervision of private business for the purpose of limiting individual control of production, whether that control be the result of inventive genius, thrift or lawlessness. In other words, while declaring competition to be the natural law, he must needs recommend drastic artificial means to secure it.

Now the tariff did not produce either trusts or monopolies; because that tariff that fostered one concern, fostered alike all other concerns in the same line; and trusts are but groups of competing concerns working under a mutual agreement. It was the fierce strife of competition that drove them into combination, finding it easier to fight together than against one another.

Wasn't it rather discrimination in freight rates in favor of one competitor over another, thus giving him an advantage in the market, that enabled that competitor to force the others from the field? But it was in the effort to stop this sort of wrong doing that the administration, accused of causing a panic, brought down on its devoted head the undying hatred of all unlawful monopolists. It was in recognition of this economic wrong that Mr. Bryan advocated his now discarded proposition for government ownership of railroads. That was the only proposal on his part to remedy this crying wrong. He does not offer to proceed with the Roosevelt program to stop rebating; but plans now only to put limitations on the producer. Judge Taft was a pioneer advocate of rate regulation and suggested the idea to President Roosevelt.

THE FIGHT FOR THE OFFICES.

Mr. Hearst's exposures have made this trust business a matter of human interest. Bryan's advocates have made capital of this by declaring the Republican party has been in power so long it has become corrupt, an acknowledgement on their part that they do not feel themselves incorruptible. Yet the only responsibility the administration must shoulder is for calling popular attention to it. No connection between such men as Roosevelt, Root, Taft and Garfield and the predatory interests can be shown. The latter fought Roosevelt's administration with their representatives in the congress; they made common cause against Taft before the nomination; and their man Foraker and others have failed to conceal their attitude toward him since.

It is not Republican senators alone, who are debauched by the Standard Oil. The correspondence with Joe Bailey, of Texas, indicates that whenever a Democratic senator—lawyer approaches the intellectual capacity of Foraker he is subjected to the same temptations. Great legal ability is what the Standard wants and pays for; and that there are fewer Democrats bought up, perhaps, accounts for the blind fury of the majority against the evil.

But supposing it was a fight "to turn the rascals out", what relief is Mr. Bryan to offer? We will except our friend and neighbor, Urey Woodson. We know him and love him, vigorous partisan that he is. Would you exchange anyone of the cabinet group around Roosevelt or the friends of Taft for "Flingy" Conners, of the Buffalo docks; Charles Murphy, the Tammany boss; Roger Sullivan, of Illinois; Tom Taggart, of Indiana—or Haskell, of Oklahoma?

Foraker has been exposed. Yes; but he is the enemy of Taft; as is his henchman "Boss" Cox, of Cincinnati. And Foraker defied his accusers to prosecute him in court. It is but a few days since Mr. Bryan claimed the same sort of thing for his friend Haskell—constructive assumption of innocence until proven guilty in court. That is what the president hopefully calls "Law honesty". Anything is honesty that is not a direct violation of an express statute.

Our Socialist friends will dismiss this chapter as a quarrel over the offices.

WHERE WILL YOU TURN?

If the Republican program is wrong in holding illegal combinations in restraint of trade and rate discrimination evils to be eradicated; the preservation of the protective tariff essential to the welfare of home industries that they may pay a higher wage than is paid in Europe; in aiding the farmer to maintain the price of his products; in facilitating means of commerce on our inland waterways; the irrigation of desert lands; the draining of swamps; the conservation of natural resources; the encouragement of trade relations with South America and the Orient; and the execution of our colonial trust for the benefit of the colonies; then one must turn either to Democracy or to Socialism.

What has Mr. Bryan to offer business? He says Roosevelt caused the panic; yet he would crush the trusts by tariff revision and restrict trade by arbitrary limitations and a system of espionage, besides making an inventory of railroad holdings with hired experts to expose their assets to the prospective buyers of stock. Would that heighten or lessen panicky conditions?

If a reduction of the tariff would ruin a strong industrial trust, what would it do to a weak competitor?

What does Bryan offer in the way of currency reform since his free silver heresy has been discarded? A bank deposit guaranty, that, instead of protecting the depositor, would encourage speculation with the depositors' money.

Do the banks depend on the general prosperity of the country for their welfare? If they do not, why do banks suffer in times of depression? If they are thus related to the welfare of the community, would not bankers favor any conservative system that would encourage depositors to trust them and that would prevent runs in times of panic? Let us remember that bankers led the fight against Bryan in the days of "free silver" and were denounced as vampires by the "Boy Orator of the Platte". The National Bankers' association at Denver Thursday denounced the deposit guaranty in measured terms as "superficially pleasing, but fallacious and sophistical".

Thus we see repeated the old story of Bryanism with the same opposition. His election would only turn over the offices to Democratic opponents who declare tenure of office brings corruption, and afford him an opportunity to try some experiments with free silver, free trade, anti-imperialism, government ownership, "trust busting", trade espionage, etc.

Then there is Socialism, if one prefers that.

If he likes the Roosevelt program, there is Taft. He is part of the present administration, father of some of its policies, guardian of many others. He's a tried judge and administrator. His courage has been tested by his refusal to compromise with political influences in his own state. His nomination was opposed by those interests with which Foraker and Haskell are identified.

We have no apologies to make for the Dingley tariff. Its schedules have been in existence longer than any other tariff ever lasted without being revised.

We have no apologies for the Forakers and Aldrichs, even if Mr. Bryan has for Haskell. If Mr. Roosevelt was not better than his party, we should have to discard the law of averages. He has distinctly improved the tone of it and directed its policies to a higher plane. His record is a proud one. He has made it better. He came at a critical period in our evolution; predecessors have considered only business. He has given heed to the toiler. He was inevitable with his keen sympathies and ready pen and tongue, just as the judicious, efficient, immovable honest Taft is logical.

May Stewart.

Shakespeare's great comedy holds the boards at The Kentucky Monday night, October 3. This will be Miss Stewart's first appearance in Paducah, but the announcement of her coming has aroused considerable interest among the play-goers and neighboring towns. Shakespearean attractions and stars of Miss Stewart's standing are not to be seen in Paducah every week, and no doubt the theater goers will avail themselves of this opportunity. The offering will be a musical production of "As You Like It," with Miss Stewart in the role of Rosalind.

S.S.S. HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

Sores and Ulcers are indications of impure blood. They show that the circulation has become infected with germs and poisons, which are being constantly discharged into the open place to irritate the delicate nerves, tissues and surrounding flesh and keep the sore in a state of inflammation and disease. Whether these impurities in the blood are the result of some debilitating sickness, an old taint from a former disease, or whether it is hereditary bad blood, there is but one way to cure sores and ulcers, and that is to purify the blood. Washes, salves, lotions, etc., are often beneficial because of their cleansing, antiseptic effects, but nothing applied to the surface can reach the blood, where the real cause is, and therefore cannot cure. S. S. S. is the remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It gets down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes every trace of impurity or poison, and makes a lasting cure. S. S. S. changes the quality of the circulation, so that instead of feeding the diseased parts with impurities, it nourishes and heals the irritated, inflamed flesh and causes the ulcer to fill in with healthy tissue by supplying it with pure, rich blood. WHY GIRLS CANNOT THROW

An Anatomical Reason For a Feminine Peculiarity.

Boys from time immemorial have made all manner of sport on the subject of the inability of girls to throw a stone. They suppose, of course, that it is a matter of knack and practice, and that a girl could really throw a stone with as much force as a boy if she "knew how," and threw as many. The best medical authorities, however, suggest another reason.

The difference between a girl's throwing and a boy's is substantially this: The boy crooks his elbow and reaches back with the upper part of his arm about at right angles with his body, and the forearm at an angle of 45 degrees. The direct act of throwing is accomplished by bringing the arm back with a sort of snap, working every joint from shoulder to wrist.

The girl throws with her whole arm rigid; the boy with his whole arm relaxed. Why this marked and unmistakable difference exist may be explained by the fact that the clavicle or collar bone is the feminine anatomy is some inches longer and set some degree lower down than in the masculine frame. The long, awkward bone interferes with the full and free use of the arm. This is the reason why a girl cannot throw a stone.—Philadelphia Record.

THE BANK FIGURES DON'T REVEAL ALL

Study of Oklahoma Conditions Shows Another Side.

State Deposit in Guaranteed Institutions Largely Responsible for the Big Increase.

PUBLIC FUNDS MAIN FACTOR

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 3.—The guaranty deposit law which recently went into effect in Oklahoma, whereby state banks are assessed 1 per cent of their deposits to establish a guaranty fund for the protection of depositors, has been used freely in the present campaign. Mr. Bryan has referred to the benefits which it is supposed to confer and the figures quoted in speeches by his adherents look distinctly impressive from a distance. They should not be accepted at their face value, however, as a little analysis of the actual condition which exists here will make plain.

Mr. Bryan has emphasized the undeniable fact that since the new banking regulations went into effect the deposits in the state banks have been swelled, while those in the national banks have fallen off. The figures he used were compiled by the Oklahoma state banking board. More recent figures, showing two months not included by Mr. Bryan, reveal the fact that between December 3, 1907, and July 15, 1908, the national banks lost in deposits $1,497,740. The state banks during the same period gained $4,000,991, making a net gain of the state of $2,503,251. In deposits in the national banks for the period were diminished power. The floater is one of the most while the state banks increased their failure of the invading army of civilization. He is the spume which the inundating wave of humanity throws up; the wave itself will soon be deep and lasting over all the west.—July 17, 1908.

State Funds Big Factor.

On the face of it this table is an excellent argument for the new Oklahoma system of guaranteeing bank deposits, but when subjected to analysis certain features are discovered that merit study.

The decrease in national bank deposits during the seven months was practically a million and a half dollars. More than four-fifths of this sum, however, is represented by state funds, which were withdrawn from the national banks because they could not or would not avail themselves of the guaranty system. Only about one-fifth of the million and a half of dollars, therefore, represents savings drawn out by individual depositors.

The increase for the state banks was, roughly, $4,000,000. During the period of the increase Oklahoma received from the outside $5,000,000 her portion of the school fund, which came to her when statehood was effected. The last of this sum was paid in July 1. Almost every cent of this sum was deposited in banks having the guarantee plan in operation, so that national banks did not profit.

Bryan Figures Misleading.

Not more than $1,000,000 of this fund has left the state for any purpose. It is only natural to suppose that most of the remaining $4,000,000 has found its way into the banks. Subtract the $1,500,000 decrease suffered by the national banks from the $4,000,000 increase in the state banks and the net gain in deposits is found to be only $2,500,000 of increase, as against the $1,250,000 mentioned by Mr. Bryan. With the $5,000,000 included in the school fund eliminated it will be apparent that a different showing would be made.

The figures used by the Bryan speakers, showing the net increase in deposits, have been used to illustrate their contention that money was thus brought out of hiding and put into circulation, but if this were true surely the net increase would, when taken in conjunction with the school fund, be vastly greater than it is. The belief among national bankers here is that there has never been much idle money in Oklahoma, and that the amount today is not over $300,000. The new bank plan is thought to have had little effect upon the idle money, and the large school fund is looked upon as the true source of the gratifying showing of state banks.

PIONEER OF TODAY.

Influence Through Which West Is Coming to Greatness and Power.

I recall one woman I met in a little gravel-roof log house in the dry hills of Idaho, eighty miles from the railroad. She had a singularly attractive face and her home, though poor, was as neat as a pin. She probably did not see a visitor once a week, and during the day, while the men were at work, she was entirely alone except for her two small children. I asked her if she did not grow lonely.

"Oh, no," she replied; "there are the Peters over there"—a speck on the sage-covered hills—"and the Warrens over there"—and she shaded her eyes and looked off across the sun-blinding plain to another speck on the horizon—"and nearly every day some team passes on the way to the basin."

The nearest school was twenty-six miles away, so she had to teach her own children; the nearest doctor was eighty miles. She told me with a catch in her voice how one of her children, a little girl, had been down with scarlet fever the winter before. The snow lay deep on the hills, so that even the mail-carrier, who usually came through twice a week, could not break the road. Her husband, however, saddled his horse and started, leaving her alone with the child. He was gone four days and when he came back, half dead with fatigue, having walked the last twenty-five miles, for his horse was utterly worn out, he brought only the word that the doctor could not come. And so they waited at the baby's bed until the little thing was out of danger.

It is difficult for people in an old, settled country to realize what pioneering in the west, even today, really means. For though the country is rapidly settling up, the distances are enormous, the roads often rough, and communication with the outside world is uncertain. Some of the counties of the northwest are as large as the smaller eastern states. From a place where I once stopped in Wyoming it required five days' hard traveling to reach the county seat, a distance, by the only road, of over 150 miles. I was told of a sheriff in Hennepin County, Ore., who traveled 170 miles to summon a juror. One can imagine the cost of litigation to resort to the easy and speedy court of the six-shooter.

But it is by these hardships of the trail and of the pioneer home that deposits in the national west are to be increased.

Deposits in the national banks for the period were diminished power. The floater is one of the most while the state banks increased their failure of the invading army of civilization. He is the spume which the inundating wave of humanity throws up; the wave itself will soon be deep and lasting over all the west.—July 17, 1908.

Gone Already.

A gentleman is entertaining a cousin at a restaurant in the city, and observes that the countryman takes no notice of the elegant surroundings.

"What are you watching the door so anxiously for?" asks the host finally.

"I want to see that nobody gets away with my overcoat."

"O, you needn't be anxious. You see, I don't bother about mine."

"No reason why you should! Yours went half an hour ago!"—Meggen-dorf Blaetter.

"1—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.

"2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same size fire pot.

"3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.

"4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.

"5—A uniform heat day and night with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.

"6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.

"7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.

SHE NEARLY KNEW HIM.

Little Girl Who Lived Across Street Tells Her Memories of John D.

They were talking about our neighbor across the way, says Clara Morris, in the September Delineator. I did not know him, I did not even know his name, but I heard Mr. Herrick say, "I tell you, I feel it in my very bones that some day that young man is going to hold one of the world's great fortunes in his grip!"

Mr. Wade, as he dragged his great chair up to it, said a bit sharply:

"Herrick is taking a long look ahead—perhaps, but—" A silence fell; then I distinctly heard the three slow taps of his forefinger on the table as he finished with emphasis, "That man—will go far."

The clock struck, my mother's toe touched me warmly. I awoke, rapidly trembling with excited interest in the man who was going to be very wealthy—who lived right across the street, and who was "going far." with a stroke of his palm, and then Even in that first confusion of thought, I almost prayed he might not start before I could see him. I was determined to stalk the fascinating man, who like the fairy prince, was going forth to make his mark; to win a great fortune and to "go far."

How far? Where to? Would he ever come back? But, the man who was "going far" always stepped on to the sidewalk, turned, drew the gate toward him, then with both hands lifted it slightly and latched it silently, and was off, his long legs reminding me of compasses.

At last I saw him; very tall, very slender, very fair or else very pale, he seemed a very young grown-up. He came quickly to the gate and paused an instant—and then swift panic came upon me, and I turned and fled.

By constant watching I came to know the small tricks of manner and movement of the man who would "go far." He was always very neat. He always stepped out of the door very quickly, then gave himself a swift glance over; laid an investigating finger on his black tie, stretched his "Chill October" among the rushes on the banks of the Tay, near Perth, a railway port from the station at Kinfauns used to carry the canvas back and forth for him.

The porter was a quaint chap; his services were called for many days in requisition; he became quite friendly with Sir John and seemed to take a hearty interest in the progress of the painting.

"Well, 'Chill October' was eventually finished, and sold a little while afterward for a thousand pounds. This fact somehow reached the porter's ears. He met Sir John's brother-in-law at Kinfauns one day and said excitedly:

"Mon, it's true that Sir John's 'picture and got a thousand pound for it?"

"Yes, certainly," was the reply.

"A thousand pound!" repeated the porter. "Why, mon, I wadna' gien half a croon for it."—Philadelphia Record.

LAST CHANCE!

COAL WILL ADVANCE!

FAIR WARNING!

Below is what the coal mine operators and railroad companies tell us: Car famine, demand for coal, low stocks, hard winter expected. Advice from fourteen coal mine operators already that they will advance the price of coal from one to two cents per bushel the first of October. All other coal mine operators will follow, as they have always done before. Only one more week to get your order in on present prices. This is not to frighten the public, but to advise our customers.
